NEWS NOTES.

An inventory of the estate of the late P. T. Barham shows it to be worth $1,579,532.

The Rev. John S. Ray, was sentenced at Weoster, Ohio, last week, to two years in the penitentiary for burglary.

The Treasury statement shows that there is a net balance of $3,900,000 in the Treasury of the United States.

The large tobacco factories of P. H. Mayo & Bro., at Richmond, Va., were partially destroyed by fire last week; loss $75,000.

John Barclay, the delinquent treasurer of Philadelphia, has pleaded guilty to all the charges preferred against him. He got away with some $700,000.

It is stated that President Diaz, of Mexico, has ordered Minister Romero from Washington to Mexico to assume the duties of Secretary of the Treasury.

At Paris, Ky., the negroes are reported organizing to release a colored brother named Rich Johnson, from jail. Johnson is accused of assaulting ladies on the street.

John Butler, a German who has been in the employ of James Lloyd, of Tyrone, Ky., committed suicide by taking Paris green last week. He was supposed insane.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals has affirmed the judgment of the Fayette circuit court, sentencing Anthony Duncan to death for the murder of Dr. Gorham last November.

A printing outfit at South Bend, Indiana, which printed counterfeit Confederate money as an advertising scheme has been seized by the U. S. Marshal, on the ground that such printing of this money was contrary to law.

J. N. Campbell, the first colored magistrate ever elected in Kentucky was on trial at Hopkinsville last week for forgery, with a strong case against him. He is a school teacher and is charged with having forged his pay certificate.

Chas. McCutcheon, aged ten years, living near Rutherford, Tenn., was chasing a kitten in his father's yard last week when he fell, striking his throat across a fence rail. His throat began to swell and he was taken to death in a few hours.

In the celebrated haccarat trial in London the jury found Sir William Gordon Cumming guilty of cheating at cards. The verdict was based by the spectators, Sir William received an ovation from the populace, while his accusers were insulted by the mob and their solicitor had to fly for his life. The general impression is that Sir William is the victim of a conspiracy to shield the Prince of Wales. It is another illustration of the adage, "Put not your trust in princes."

A CLEAR BACK-DOWN.

The New York Tribune Retracts Its Triple Statement.

New York, June 10.—The New York Tribune, which has heretofore had much to say on the subject of triple, from a high protection standpoint, recently let its enthusiasm get the best of its judgment and today on its editorial page it makes the following acknowledgment of its error:

"The Tribune will frankly say, that in a short paragraph in its editorial column of April 21, a statement was made that the triple production in this country had been so large as to compel the Welsh Trust to shut down. That assertion was a mistake and should never have been made. No one regrets more than the Tribune that an inaccurate item of this kind should have been printed in its columns."

ILLUINS IN LIME.

Springfield, June 11.—The conference report on the ballot reform bill was adopted by both houses of the Illinois Legislature today, and the measure now goes to the Governor. According to the bill the names of candidates of all different parties must be placed on one ballot, which will be almost identical with the Indiana blanket ballot. The provisions as to the manner of voting are in accordance with the Australian system. This bill provides that every person shall be allowed by employers two hours in which to vote, and no deduction shall be made from wages. Ballots will be preserved for six months after the election.

The Robert and Minnie was released at San Diego last week on a $5,000 bond. Her Captain is under $5,000 bond and her original crew are in Los Angeles jail.

FAITH IN THE FATHER

Thousands flock to the home of Mount Troy's Priest.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 11.—Father S. G. Mollinger, the famous priest physician, from Mount Troy, Allegheny, has not been summoned to the Vatican by the pope, as has been reported. He is not going away next Monday, and when he does go he is not going to Rome. There was a decided sensation among Catholics today and consternation among the invalids when it was announced that the white-headed priest was ordered to Rome.

The altitudes were appalled at the thought that he was going to desert them. This evening, however, the Reverend Father pronounced the entire story a fraud, and said he was not going away until the present rush of patients was disposed of and then only to rest, as he did every year, at Saint Anthony's day; he said furthermore that the Pope had not sent for him and he was not going to Rome.

AWAITING ST. ANTHONY'S DAY.

There are from 2,500 to 3,000 persons now in the boarding houses at Mount Troy to be treated by Father Mollinger. Some have already received his blessing and taken his medicine, and all anxiously await St. Anthony's day, next Saturday, when the priest physician's power is popularly believed to be at its height. Every incoming train brings its share of afflicted, the blind, deaf, lame, palsied, paralytic, consumptive, rheumatic, and all manner of invalids come by the hundreds. The midnight express from the east last night brought about 100, and the express from the southwest as many more. This week over 1,000 have come over the Pennsylvania lines, alone, about two hundred of whom are from Nashville, Tenn., where the reported miraculous cure of a locomotive engineer, whose legs were paralyzed, set all the cripples and invalids wild. Today the throng of sick and suffering were so great about the aged priest's church of the Most Holy Name of Jesus that he abandoned the sacristy and took refuge in the school house next by.

DRIVEN: LIVERY TRADER.

It came out during the day that some of the priest's subordinates were making money by charging the sick from $5 to $10 per head for liverying them into his presence. Of course the sufferers are only too glad to pay well for the opportunity for consulting, and the doorkeeper and other hangers-on prospered. The people living on the streets surrounding the church are living a lively trade at keeping boarders. They expect to have them even to ten thousand on St. Anthony's Day, the prices for lodging being from one to two dollars per day, meals cost accordingly. Strangers on Mt. Troy sell at 25c apiece and milk ten cents a glass.

Every morning Father Mollinger celebrates mass, and the church is crowded. In the afternoon he receives patients, treating about one hundred daily. The others have to wait. To each he gives prescriptions and the prescriptions are invariably filled at a certain drugstore in which non-believing sinners say, the good Father has an interest.

INSTANCES OF CURES.

Every day at St. Anthony's ap preaches cures more or less surprising are reported from Mount Troy. Today James Duffey, of Canton, O., whose arms have been useless on account of palsy for years, was given a crucifix to hold. He clutched it tightly for a few moments while the priest blessed him and then joyfully announced that he had recovered the use of his arms. Alice McGowan returned to her home at Overton, N. Y., cured of blindness. Mamie Scanlon, who came suffering with hip disease, and Miss J. Duffey, a victim of white swelling, both started back to Binghamton, N. Y., declaring the condition much improved. Albert Curtis, who came from Kansas City, as helpless as a child from acute rheumatism, has gone home without his crutches, able to walk unsupported. Mrs. Francis Haines, of Waterloo, New York, arrived Monday in an invalid's chair. (For 11 years she has been unable to walk. Her legs were paralyzed. Last evening she was carried into Father Mollinger's presence. He blessed her and in a few moments the old woman was cured. She walked from the church unaided to the astonishment of her relatives.

THE WORK OF THE PRIEST.

Father Mollinger is a Belgian by birth and 61 years of age. He is skilled in medicine beyond the ordinary physician. His patron saint goes on.

HUNG AT HICKMAN.

He Was a Negro and His Last Request Was for Whisky.

Hickman, Ky., June 10.—L. V. James, colored, was executed by sheriff Johnson at 5:17 this morning for the murder of Thomas Garvin in Fulton, Ky., in November, 1889. The gallows was erected in a twenty five foot stockade, about 300 yards from the jail. About forty witnesses were at the hanging. The prisoner was very restless during the night. He awoke at 3 o'clock and was baptized by Father Kelly. He refused breakfast and at 5:30 started for the scaffold in charge of the sheriff and guards. He walked firmly and climbed the trap without weakening. He shook hands with the jailer and bid him good bye.

While being unmanacled he asked for a drink of whisky. After prayer the sheriff adjusted the noose and drew on the black cap. A quick cut upon the trap door cord and the prisoner fell eight feet. Twice he raised his shoulders very slightly, and at the end of fourteen minutes he was pronounced dead. The neck was broken.

In November, 1889, one night James had a fight with some man, name not known, and was beaten badly. He procured a revolver and started to find his enemy. Searching at the depot he saw Tom Garvin, a man from Chicago, who was there on business, and waiting for a train, and mistaking him for the other, he fired and shot him dead. He then escaped but was caught at New Orleans and was consigned and sentenced to hang November last, but was adjudged insane. Later he became sane, and the execution was set for today.

Wild Fruits.

There are many wild fruits indigenous to Crittenden county. The following are mentioned at random:

1. SERVICE BERRY, AMELANCHIER CANADENSIS.

This is borne by a large shrub or tree, which grows on the banks of streams and about the edges of bluffs. The flower is white and very fragrant, and blooms before the leaves put out. The fruit is about as large as a green pea and is of a light red color and pleasant flavor.

2. MULBERRY, MORUS ALBA.

This is too well known to merit a description. The fruit is quite luscious and the tree is excellent for shade and timber.

The fruit is the delight of squirrels and those who hunt them. It is ripe in June. The fruit is a compound berry and is from one to two inches in length and when ripe is dark red.

3. BLACKBERRY.

Of this we have three principal kinds: Dewberry, Rubus (Canadaensis). Late in June or early in July it is the pride of the blackberries, the first and finest of all, but less abundant than the others. The stem is hairy and is covered with small thorns.

Sand blackberry, Rubus Canadensis, comes next to the dewberry and is ripe in July. The stem is not so high or erect as that of the High blackberry. It is intermediate between the Dewberry and High blackberry.

High blackberry, Rubus villosus, is the most abundant and is ripe in July and August.

More rare than the blackberry is Rubus occidentalis, Black Raspberry or Thimbleberry.

4. STRAWBERRY, FRAGARIA VIRGINIANA.

This, though it is the original of the American strawberry, is neither very abundant nor valuable, and for strawberries one would better cultivate some good nursery variety.

5. WILD PLUM, PRUNUS AMERICANA.

The bloom is white and is on the tree before the leaf is out. The fruit is edible but not very desirable. It is worthless as compared with the cultivated plum, but it might form a hardy stock for grafting into.

R. H. D.

Not the Right Word.

"No," said Berta sadly, "pain" doesn't express what I suffer at such times—it is simply "angish." I know I ought to consult a physician, but I dread it so. I can't bring myself to do it. Then, too, female diseases always seem so indelicate to me I can't bear to have any one to know or speak of mine.

"Yes, dear," answered Edith, "but don't you know you can be cured without going to a physician? Send to any druggist for a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and take it, and you'll feel better in a very few days."

The manufacturers warrant the medicine, too. They guarantee it to do exactly what it claims, viz: to cure leucorrhoea, painful irregularities, excessive flowing, proflapsus, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus and the numerous other female weaknesses. It so strengthens and builds up the uterine system and nerves that worn out, run down mothers and wives feel rejuvenated after taking it, and they are saved the painful embarrassment and expense of a surgical examination and tedious, tiresome treatment.

The friendly offices of the United States Minister to Chili in arranging a truce between Balmaceda's government and the insurgent forces has proven fruitless, and the war goes on.

TIT FOR TAT.

Washington, June 10.—It is denied positively, at the State Department, that Mr. Porter, our minister to Italy, has been recalled. Some time before the New Orleans affair Mr. Porter secured leave of absence but delayed his departure from Rome on account of the negotiations resulting from that affair. He has now been constantly on duty in Rome for more than a year, which is not usual in the ministerial service.

It is stated that he will not leave Europe, but nevertheless there is reason to believe that his leave of absence from Rome will be so indefinite in its terms as to warrant him in delaying his return to his post unless some step has been taken by the Italian Government looking to the return of its Minister to the United States. So far as our Government knows, Baron Fava was not recalled but was simply granted an indefinite leave of absence.

This is precisely the state of affairs which existed between us and Austria when we refrained for some time from sending a minister to Austria to replace Mr. Kelley, whom the Austrian Government had refused to receive. Of course the officials of the State Department are unwilling to admit that any such significance is to be given Mr. Porter's absence from Rome, but there are diplomatic reasons why this state of affairs should exist without an official statement of the reason.

The Third Party.

Having seen quite a controversy in the Press concerning the citizens' meeting at Bloom, and as I was present as a delegate from Tolu Lodge, I desire to write something in regard to said meeting. I was instructed by my Lodge to use my influence against forming a new or independent party which I did, notwithstanding that I have for some time feared that we would never get relief from the two old parties.

Almost any day we hear somebody speaking of the third party, and I will just say that there can not be but two parties in this country, the party of the oppressed and the party of the oppressors, and if we long to the latter class, and if we form a new party it will be an absolute necessity for the party of the oppressed to obtain the legislation they desire.

I am for each and every one of our demands being enacted into laws, in order to do this we have to walk over the political graves of both old parties; and I would to God that every one who makes his living by the sweat of his brow would make the same resolution. These demands read more like the Declaration of Independence than any other article that ever came from a liberty loving man.

When we talk to our Democratic friends about the necessity of forming a new party they tell us that their party has not been in power in this government for one hour during thirty years, and hence is not responsible for the bad legislation which we complain. 'Tis true the Republican party is the author of nearly all our bad legislation. It has given us the national bank system, it has demonetized silver, it has given away our public domain to railroad companies, in area equal to thirteen of our present States, and it has enacted such other class legislation in favor of the capitalists and gold bugs. All this is true, but what assurance have we that the Democratic party would do any better if it were to obtain control of this nation? None whatever. The Democratic party is not fighting any of the bad legislation of the Republican party. In short, the two old parties are squabbling over the tariff, a question they have quarreled over a hundred years, and a question that can never be permanently settled. This is the reason the politicians hold up while they rob the people of their hard earnings.

Grover Cleveland, who is acknowledged to be the leader of his party and the probable nominee for President in '92, said plainly that he opposed the free and unlimited coinage of silver, while ninety nine hundredths of this people are clamoring for this legislation. Yet the party still calls him their leader.

The late Democratic convention at Louisville adopted a resolution favoring free coinage, still I don't hesitate to say that nine tenths of the members of that convention would support Cleveland for President if he were the Democratic nominee. For any laboring man of the South and West to support Cleveland for President, he will simply apply the lighted torch to his own funeral pile of liberties.

I have always been a Democrat, but if that party has to call a thing unconstitutional because it proposes

Two Brothers to Hang.

Jackson, Tenn., June 11.—In the Supreme court today the death sentences of two young men, brothers, Woodville and Nathan Talner, from Tate county, were affirmed. They were convicted of the murder of another young man named Goodale. The proof showed the Goodale took a skin belonging to the Talners and without further provocation they murdered him. They were sentenced to hang August 7.

A. S. Johnson.

We are authorized and requested to announce J. A. RUDY, of Providence, Webster county, a candidate for State Senator, from the 4th District, composed of the counties of Caldwell, Crittenden and Webster, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Cook I am now a candidate for the office of jailer subject to the action of the Republican party. Since my appointment I have tried to discharge the duties of the office faithfully and if elected promise a continuance of the same earnest effort to do so. Your support will be gratefully appreciated.

Joseph W. Adams.

We are authorized to announce D. M. HALL, a candidate for jailer of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Democratic party. He will appreciate your vote and influence.

We are authorized to announce GEORGE BOSTON, a candidate for jailer of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Hon. John Young Brown opened the State canvass at Dixon Monday from there he goes to the mountains.

The Alliance Democrats in a great many counties are following the example of Crittenden and Livingston by taking charge of the primaries and nominating Democrat Alliance men for the Legislature.

The Republicans of Webster county seem inclined to support Mr. Henderson the Cincinnati Convention is a little difficult to comprehend.

The new constitution says all property shall be taxed alike. Under its provisions the banks and the corporations will be taxed according to what they have, just the same as the poor man's home. This is fair, just and nothing else is honorable.

The new constitution makes a reduction of one half in the number of magistrates. Under it Crittenden would have seven instead of fourteen. The office would pay much better and the officers could afford to better qualify themselves for the place.

We hear continually from the opponents of the new constitution that that instrument will reduce taxation on banks; if this be true, why is there not a mighty rush of the banks to the support of this new organic law? As the banks and bankers are as a unit against, there must be something wrong.

Sixteen years ago Mr. Sumner Marble, of Caldwell county, represented this district in the State Senate; twelve years ago Mr. William Ham, of Webster, was the Senator; eight years ago Mr. F. M. Clement, of Crittenden, was chosen. Then each county in the district had furnished a man. Four years ago, starting on the round again, Mr. Darby, from Caldwell, was elected. Now, according to the unwritten agreement it is Webster's turn, and Mr. Rudy has been given the nomination by two of the counties composing the district, and next Saturday Caldwell holds a primary.

Republican Convention.

Webster Co. Citizen.

A large number of the influential Republicans of the county assembled at the court house at Dixon on Monday for the purpose of placing candidates in the field for the Senate and Legislature.

The majority present strongly favored putting out a ticket, but two or three of the most prominent ones strenuously opposed making any nomination at all.

Hon. G. H. Towery, who is probably the leader of the Republican party in Webster county, made a speech in which he argued that it was useless to make any nominations. He referred to Judge Orr, the Alliance candidate for the Senate, and said that that gentleman was good enough material for the Republicans to swallow, and in order to make his statement more forcible, he read an article from the Citizen of two weeks ago, in regard to Mr. Orr's political complexion.

Isaac Osborn, a prominent colored farmer and politician, made a speech in which he urged that a straight Republican ticket be placed in the field. He said that he was opposed to the Farmers Alliance, and would use all his influence with his race against their candidate. He said they did not recognize the negro in their organization and he would only vote for the candidate nominated by the party of his choice.

After several speeches from others the convention adjourned without any nominations being made, and no instructions to meet again.

The Lexington Meeting.

It is difficult to size up the meeting held at Lexington last week by the opponents of the new constitution. To the discredit of the metropolitan press the reports are so colored by the position of the papers, that it is impossible to strike a middle line. The Courier-Journal pronounced it a great gathering of great people, surcharged with great enthusiasm, while the Lexington papers and the Louisville Post relegate it to that peculiar catalogue known as small potatoes and few in the hill, in the midst of a protracted drought.

The conservative man—if there is such a creature in modern affairs—will properly view each statement with a great deal of reservation. This much is true: there was a meeting; it was at Lexington; there were some people there; they are opposed to the adoption of the new constitution; they will be heard from later. This much is absolutely true. All else is clouded in more or less mystery. Henry Waterson, the great editor, while proclaiming his allegiance to the cause and swearing by the malcontents, balked at the first crack of the whip, and would not be yoked with the Lexington team. His presence there would have gone further to lighten the load than any other ten men who did attend. There were, however, some prominent people in attendance, notably Hon. J. H. Wilson, the only Republican Congressman in Kentucky; J. Stoddard Johnston; Col. Walter Evans, once a Republican candidate for Governor; John S. Rhea, and a few others prominent in State affairs, and several more whose names have not yet become distinguished. A State Central Committee, a State Executive Committee, were appointed and will take active charge of the fight and direct the campaign.

If the convention is any indication of the magnitude of the opposition there have been ready to concede.

THE STRIPED CUCUMBER BEETLE.

Various Ways of Protecting Plants from These Troublesome Pests.

There are few injurious insects for which more remedies and preventive action are recommended than the striped cucumber beetle—the everywhere abundant "yellow bug," with black stripes.

PROTECTORS AGAINST CUCUMBER BEETLES.

Along its back, which attacks squashes, cucumbers, melons and similar plants. A large proportion of these remedies are doubtless worthless, if, indeed, not positively injurious.

Obviously the only safe plan to prevent injury is to force on the insects the various forms of apparatus for this purpose are the ones shown in the accompanying cuts from American Gardener.

The simplest method, and one largely practiced in some of the great melon growing sections, is that of laying a piece of thin cloth over the hills before the plants are up, covering the edges of it with loose earth. This works very well while the plants are young, but is liable to crumple and be left on too long.

To obviate this difficulty, Professor Wood, of the Ohio experiment station, tried various methods of holding the cloth up in the middle. One of the simplest and perhaps most satisfactory methods, according to his experiments, is to take two pieces of wire and put their ends in the ground so as to form a double arch, like the center arch of a croquet ground. Over this the cloth is laid, the edges being held down by loose earth as before, and as shown in Fig. 4.

Or the wires may be twisted around each other as shown in Fig. 3, or a single long wire may be bent as shown in Fig. 1. A half barrel hoop makes a very good substitute for the wire, as may be seen in Fig. 6.

The best cloth found for the purpose is the lightest grade of plant cloth sold by seedsmen. This can be purchased in quantity for three or four cents a yard and one set of covers properly cared for ought to last at least three seasons.

After they have been used on the early squashes and melons they are ready for the late cucumbers. They require little storage room between seasons.

Professor Wood also tried boxes covered with thin cloth (Fig. 2), and found them less desirable than the cloth, because they do not admit sunshine and air as well, so that the plants do not grow as rapidly and vigorously. When the plant reaches the top, also, it cannot lift the cloth with it, while with the cloth alone it can raise it without difficulty.

It is necessary to keep the covers on until the plants have put out five or six leaves, and perhaps in case of cucumbers and melons even longer, for the beetle sometimes attacks them in great numbers after the covers are removed. These appliances are cheaper than the wire screen protectors sold by dealers, and which do very effective work for cucumbers and melons.

MORE PROTECTORS.

Some of the covers are removed. These appliances are cheaper than the wire screen protectors sold by dealers, and which do very effective work for cucumbers and melons.

WHEN TO CUT GRASS.

How to Make the Best Hay for Milk Cows.

The usual time for cutting grass is so late in the year that most of the juicy, succulent portions of it have escaped, and the hay will be poor even when it is growing in the field. They will leave the patches of full grown grass and search for that of younger growth. Every dairyman knows what a difference the early pastures have upon the milk flow, and how, later in the season, when the grass becomes mature, the milk and butter lose that first fine fragrance and superior flavor. All of this argues that grasses much of its valuable parts for the dairyman after it has reached a certain stage of maturity. We cannot expect hay made from such grass to be any better. The fine quality in the hay which fresh spring grass produces cannot be obtained in the winter from cows fed on such overripe hay.

The cutting and curing of hay earlier in the season will save for the cows a great deal of this mysterious substance which affects the milk so favorably. The haying season for the dairyman should not be the same as that now adapted by general consent by farmers who raise it for the markets or for general stock. There is no special week or month in which hay should be cut and cured. The cows will be the more benefited by hay cut at the most it should be cut before it has time to lose this fine, succulent flavor. This necessitates early harvesting, and it also demands a repetition of it. Three cuttings may be obtained from one field in a season, or two cuttings at the least. It is doubtful then if there is any loss sustained in quality if two or three cuttings are taken from the field.

The dairyman, to get the best winter hay then, should cut his grass before it has blossomed or bloomed. This may not be the best hay for stock of a general nature, but it is certainly the ideal dairyman's winter fodder.—American Cultivator.

It has been estimated that the Vermont maple sugar crop for the season is 17,000,000 pounds. About 40 per cent. is syrup.

Presiding Elder Campbell preached an interesting sermon at the Methodist church Sunday; the body of the discourse was devoted to Sanctification or holiness; and the minister holds to the opinion that this doctrine of sanctification was taught by Wesley, the founder of Methodism, and read from the first book of discipline published by the Methodists in 1784, the articles bearing upon this subject. He does not preach the parading of the doctrine but urges his people to show it in their lives; to live it, rather than talk it.

CALL TO ARMS.

A Stirling Address by the State Central Committee.

The State Central Committee's address to the Democrats of Kentucky is published below in full. It has been prepared in accordance with the plans of the committee and the candidates as arranged at the conference on Thursday evening of last week. The paper is as follows:

"Office of the Democratic State Central Committee, Louisville, Ky., June 12.—To the Democracy of Kentucky: The approaching national election and the great interests involved—interests for the maintenance of which you, more than the Democrats of any other State, have been responsible—render the result of the pending election of the greatest consequence.

"From the election of Samuel J. Tilden in 1876 to the defeat of Grover Cleveland in 1888, you have led in the fight for the removal of need less tariff taxation, until by your persistent demands in behalf of the people, the principles for which you have contended have become popularly known as the 'Kentucky Idea.'

"In 1888 the honest purpose of the people's President to carry out the principles embodied in your St. Louis platform concentrated the moneyed power of the country in support of Harrison, and the only President the Democrats had secured in thirty years went down in a faithful effort to carry out the principles on which you nominated him.

"The fight is still being waged for the supremacy of the right to reduce your taxes to a legitimate limit, and at the same time, when you are expected to maintain a consistent and firm position before the country we beg that you will let no side issue divert your allegiance or diminish your influence. No organization for the protection of particular interests nor your views as to the merits of the old or the new constitution have any concern with your democracy. One is none the less a Democrat who entertains whatever opinion he may choose on these questions. 'He is a Democrat that votes the Democratic ticket.'

"You committee at the outset decided to assume in the party's behalf any responsibility for the organization of the constitutional convention; that convention was not a party body, and when you met in Democratic Convention in May last, you declined to make the question of the old or the new constitution a party issue in the present canvass.

"Democrats of Kentucky, see to it that the majority in August shall not only justify, but increase the claims of your State to her preeminence in the annals of democracy, so long brilliantly sustained.

The committee also publishes a list of appointments for Hon. John Young Brown in the eastern part of the State and for Hon. W. J. Fleming in western Kentucky.
